~ Sir Arthur C. Clarke

A06-982 Juris Curiskis, Appellant, vs. City of Minneapolis, Respondent.

Hennepin County District Court, Hon. John Q. McShane.

1. When a city elects to use its charter rules, the charter provisions must be followed throughout the particular proceeding. State law applies to the extent adopted by the charter or made expressly or impliedly applicable by the state legislature. Where charter rules and statutory provisions overlap, the charter rules govern.
2. A property owner dissatisfied with the city council's confirmation of a special assessment is not required to have submitted prior written objections in order to preserve the right to appeal under Minneapolis, Minn. City Charter ch. 10, § 6 (2005).
3. A dissatisfied property owner has 30 days following the city council's confirmation of a special assessment to file an appeal with the mayor or city clerk and an additional ten days to file with the district court under Minneapolis, Minn. City Charter ch. 10, §§ 6, 8 (2005).

Reversed. Judge R. A. (Jim) Randall

A06-568 State of Minnesota, Appellant, vs. Daniel Alan Kuhlman, Respondent.
Court of Appeals.

Minneapolis Code of Ordinances sections 474.620 to 474.670, which make the owner of a motor vehicle guilty of a petty misdemeanor if the vehicle is photographed running a red light, are invalid because they are in conflict with the Minnesota Traffic Regulations, and specifically with Minn. Stat. § 169.06, subd. 4(a) (2006), and Minn. Stat. § 169.022 (2006).

Affirmed. Justice Sam Hanson.

Right-to-Petition "V" Protest at White House Garners Notice

Washington Post Gets It Right

Last Friday, three busloads of defenders of the Right-to-Petition took time away from the GML 2007 conference to gather on Pennsylvania Avenue, between the White House and LaFayette Park, to await a response from the Government to our Petitions for Redress of constitutional grievances. As has been the case, there was no response from the Government. Our repeated Petitions continue to be met with repeated injuries.

The Petitions involve significant grievances resulting from the Government's violations of the war powers, privacy, money and tax provisions of the Constitution, as well as the President's failure to "faithfully execute" the immigration laws.

The First Amendment guarantees the Right of the People to hold the Government accountable to the Constitution. Any branch is petition able and any issue is petition able. The Government is obligated to respond to proper Petitions for Redress of constitutional torts.
